GRANGE PARK IN READINESS FOR 42ND ENCAMPMENT & FAIR.

Tenters Will Move Into Canvas Homes Early for Full Week of Pleasure.—Good Speakers and Good Entertainments in Auditorium Day and Night.—The Program.

Saturday of this week is the opening day of the forty-second annual Grange Encampment and Fair at Centre Hall. The approaching "Grange picnic" promises to excell in many ways all former picnics. By the time this paper reaches its readers, Grange Park will be a tented city with an active population and by Saturday practically all the tent holders will be comfortably located in their canvas homes, ready for a full week of outdoor living and social pleasure.

On the opening Sunday a large crowd is anticipated. Miss Martha Robison of Bloomsburg, the well known Sunday-school worker, will deliver the Harvest Home anniversary address. The subject of the address is "Remember Always." A large choir will render excellent music. The park will be better lighted, the exhibition buildings in better condition, and everything is in more complete readiness for the Encampment than ever before. Owing to the favorable season the agricultural and horticultural exhibits will be of a better class than for years.

PROMISES OF GOOD STOCK DISPLAY.

THE JUDGESHIP AND PARTISAN POLITICS.

The Act of Assembly approved the 24th day of June, 1913, and known as the "non-partisan act" and which provides for the nomination and election for all officers of cities of the second class and all offices of Judge of a court of record; providing for "non-partisan" nominations and elections for said offices, etc., etc., was passed for the express purpose of keeping the Judiciary of the State, whether Judges of the Supreme or Superior Courts or Judges of the Courts of Common Pleas, out of partisan politics. This was done to elevate the Judiciary and keep the candidates, especially those for the office of President Judge, from being knocked from post to pillar in the turmoil of partisan politics.

There was another reason for the passing of the Act, making the office of judge non-partisan. It had been the sense of the people of the several judicial districts in the State that when a judge had honestly and faithfully discharged the responsibilities of the office for a full term he was naturally entitled to a re-election, as a recognition and reward for the wise, faithful and honest services rendered to the public while on the bench.

So well grounded had this feeling and good sense of the people become that in every instance where the man on the bench lived up to their idea of a judge, he has been invariably re-elected, and generally there has been no opposition to his re-nomination and election. Hon. C. A. Mayer was first elected in the old 25th judicial district in 1868, re-elected in 1878, and when, in the re-apportionment of the state into judicial districts, the 25th district was composed of Clinton, Elk, and Cameron counties he was twice re-elected in that district and was more than half through his fourth term at the time of his death. Thus the people cheerfully recognized his abilities and worth as a judge.

In other districts the same thing has been done, Judge Elwell of the old 26th District, Judge Dean of Blair county, was in his third term of service when he was elected one of the Justices of the Supreme Court. So it has been in the city of Philadelphia. Even in that hot bed of rotten politics the judges have been elected and re-elected even for the third and fourth terms, and the courts are the only clean things they have in the government of that great city.

Something is made of the fact that in Centre county no Judge has been re-elected. This was not the fault of the people. Hon. James Burnside, the first President Judge of the old 25th district to be elected, was appointed to this position by Governor Bigler on April 20, 1853, his election in October for the term of ten years from the first Monday of December of that year followed. He lost his life in an accident on the first of July 1859, having served a little over six years of his term. Judge Samuel Linn was then elected in October 1859 for the full term of ten years, resigned in May, 1868 giving, as a reason the condition of his health, having served about eight and a half years.

Hon. Charles A. Mayer was elected President Judge of the district in October 1868, re-elected in 1878, and twice after that date. Hon. John H. Orvis, who became the first President Judge of the Centre-Huntingdon district in 1883, and who had been elected associate law Judge of the old 25th district in 1874, resigned in July or August, 1884, and at the election in 1884 Hon. A. O. Furst was elected P. J. of the 49th Judicial District, composed of Centre and Huntingdon counties. He was not renominated, by no fault of his, but in his place Hon. John G. Love was nominated and elected and soon after, in May, 1895, Centre county was made a Judicial District by itself and Judge Love became its first President Judge. He was re-nominated by his own party and the people refused to re-elect him for reasons which many of our people are cognizant of.

Partisan nominations were continued to be made until after the passage of the Act of June 24th, 1913. And the judicial fights became more and more bitter and corrupt, as witness those of a few years ago in Schuylkill and Lafayette counties, and in one of these districts the man, returned as elected, was recently driven from the bench, because of the expenditure of large sums of money, in his campaign, contrary to law.

To avoid this kind of conduct and to keep the bench from being disgraced and the Judicial ermine from being dragged in the mire that seemed to be flowing in upon it, the best men in the State, with high ideals of the Judiciary and a lofty purpose to keep the ermine entirely free from the mud of political turmoil, provided for the election of judges on a "non-partisan" ticket. A more highly, worthy and commendable Act cannot well be conceived. Surely the men who devised the scheme and the legislature which passed it never, for one moment, believed that under it every Tom, Dick, and Harry would be candidates for Judge. The Act was of course intended to enable men who had proved themselves worthy, pure, and honorable ministers of Justice, and who are well known to be thoroughly learned in the law, to be re-elected without a contest. This, at least, is one of the rocks which form the basis of the "non-partisan act."

The Act is now being perverted in many of the judicial districts of the state. In some of these candidates, who are Republicans, announce themselves as non-partisan candidates for judge. They then go to Republicans and insist that they are Republicans and therefore should have the Republican vote, and go to the Democrats and solicit their votes on the ground that they are non-partisan candidates.

The non-partisan act did not and

USE HOME GROWN FRUIT

Advises Prof. H. A. Surface.—A Few Points for the Housewife in Selecting the Best Fruits.

"While fruits are abundant and cheap use plenty, but be sure you get the best and that they are ripened on the tree," said State Zoologist H. A. Surface, Harrisburg, in discussing the subject of the consumption of fruits. He spoke from experience, being one of Pennsylvania's largest producers, when he said, "Peaches and plums are unusually abundant this year, and the prices are, consequently, lower than usual. This is the year to put up an abundance of fruit in every possible style. It should be canned, dried, preserved, made into jelly, fruit juice, and other forms of fruit products. We have scarcely come to appreciate the value of unfermented fruit juice as a beverage. Ripe peaches make a juice of this kind that is unsurpassed by any of the much advertised grape juices. The fruit pulp itself from the real ripe fruit can be canned and preserved with but slight heating, thus retaining all the natural aroma of the fruit, and used for delicate flavoring for desserts, ices, ice cream, etc. Unfortunately, the very heavy crop of fruit on the trees was not thinned by all growers, and, consequently, pale and insipid fruits are too abundant on the market. The difference between the price of good fruit and poor fruit is so slight that no one can afford to use any fruit that is decayed, or lacks fair size and good color. Color stands for flavor, and flavor is the predominating feature of the fruits. The consumer should especially avoid fruits that are sold out of season. When home-grown peaches are put on the market by some person a week or two before the variety they represent should appear, it can be taken for granted that they are prematurely ripened stuff from sick trees, and that they are bitter and unfit for food. If such fruit is put into cans it will not be improved, but will come out bitter.

"There is only one way to obtain the highest quality of fruit, and that is to let it ripen on healthy trees. Get into direct communication with the grower, or his representative, and make arrangements for the fruit to be picked just as it is becoming ripe, and delivered promptly to the consumer. That fruit which is grown in other states, and shipped hundreds of miles to reach its destination, must be picked green in order to prevent it being crushed when it reaches its destination. It may have colored slightly in transit, and may have become soft by the time it reaches the consumer, but it was not ripe and never would ripen. Green fruit is not sweet, and is flavorless and insipid in comparison with ripe fruit of the same kind. Consumers should recognize the importance of using the home-grown article, and they should also know that to get really delicious fruit from the cans it is necessary to put into them "tree-ripened" fruit. This means that it should be a little riper at the time it is canned than most persons have been using. There is no difficulty about removing the skins from such ripe fruits, if one understands how. All that is necessary is to scald them quickly, like tomatoes, and slip off the skins without loss of time or material. After we published directions for peeling ripe peaches by this method last year, we received many letters of thanks and congratulations for disseminating such valuable and practical information.

"Put up a few cans of tree-ripened fruit and see the difference between this and the green-picked, imported material. By the way, do not neglect the white peaches. They are far better in flavor than the yellow, and for home use should supplant them to a great extent, because they are sweeter to the taste and richer in flavor."

McNITT-HUYETT LUMBER CO. PURCHASE NEW 5000-ACRE TRACT

Will Begin Lumber Operations on New Tract in Blair County Next Spring.—Will Require Eight Years to Cut Off Timber.

The McNitt-Huyett Lumber Company, who for the past six years have been operating one of the largest saw mills in Central Pennsylvania, at Waddle, have announced the purchase of another tract of timberland at Beaver Dam Creek, about eight miles south of Holidaysburg, Blair county, on which they will begin operations next spring.

The new tract was purchased from the Harbison-Walker Refractories Company of Pittsburgh and is known as the Mt. Etna Furnace Timberlands, having been the property of that company for a period of a century or more. There are five thousand acres of first-class timber awaiting the woodman's axe, half of which is white pine and chestnut, and the remainder oaks and other hardwoods. E. M. Huyett of Centre Hall, a member of the firm, informs the Reporter that it will require a period of eight years to cut this tract, giving employment to between seventy-five and one hundred men all the time. It is estimated that between twenty and twenty-five millions board feet of lumber will be cut. The tract is a level stretch and the Beaver Dam creek flows through almost the center of it.

Work on the Waddle tract is about at an end, but in order to obviate the necessity of moving the mill in the fall, which is not desirable to the lumbermen, the intervening time will be devoted to going over the denuded Waddle tract and gathering the remaining timber which can be used as mine props.

From the Millheim Journal.

One day last week Clayton Boob sold between fourteen and fifteen acres of farm land within the borough limits to C. H. Bressler, of Penn township. The land adjoins other lands belonging to Mr. Bressler.

Mrs. C. H. Breon, who was admitted to the Bellefonte hospital several weeks ago as an operative patient, was brought home on Saturday in Mr. Breon's automobile. She has been greatly benefited, and hopes are entertained for complete recovery.

On Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Spigelmyer, Orvis Gramley and Miss Carrie Emerick, both of Millheim, were united in marriage by Rev. W. H. Brown. Their many friends wish them much success and happiness in their wedded life.

F. S. Tomlinson, who occupies the small farm belonging to Charles W. Wolfe, near Wolfs Chapel, threshed the oats from an eight-acre field one day last week, and the crop yielded 504 bushels, machine measure. The landlord's share, 168 bushels, was hauled to Coburn and sold to the Coburn Grain and Creamery Co., the company allowing for 191 bushels by weight. The oats crop was good in this section, but we doubt if Mr. Tomlinson's record crop can be beaten.

Judge Orvis Refutes Charges.

Bellefonte, Pa., Sept. 7, 1915.

To Messrs. James H. Potter and C. C. Shuey,
Bellefonte, Pa.

Gentlemen:—

A statement purporting to be signed by yourself appeared in last week's issue of the Republican. Though it was neither addressed to myself nor any one in particular, it purports to ask a series of questions which imply, at least, reflection upon myself. I do not believe you desire to know the real facts, because if you did you would have taken the trouble to have inquired of me personally, or at least examined the records at the court house. But in order to satisfy the honest voters of the county who have a right to be informed, I wish to address you to in the most public manner possible, that every implication and injurious inference that can possibly be made from your insulting questions are entirely false.

To be more specific I here state, that I have never received a penny of income or revenue from any liquor business or any business allied with the manufacture or sale of any intoxicating beverage, not even a patent medicine having for one of its principal ingredients wine and alcohol. I have not received for my campaign expenses any money from any licensed or unlicensed person in the county, nor have I the promise from any. In fact, no one has subscribed to my campaign, and I am paying my campaign expenses out of my private resources. The records will show that I have refused many applications for licenses because of remonstrances and, as a fact, I have never ignored any remonstrances where there has been any pertinent facts alleged and proven.

As I propose to publish this in the several newspapers of the county, I will regard further statements or questions of this kind hereafter as malicious falsehoods.

I beg to remain,

Very truly yours,
ELLIS L. ORVIS.

Restaurants and Hotels to be Inspected.

The state-wide enforcement of the act to protect the patrons of hotels, restaurants, and eating houses, which was passed by the last legislature, has been begun by Dr. Samuel G. Dixon, Commissioner of Health. All of the local boards of health in the boroughs and cities have received a communication from Dr. Dixon enclosing copies of this act and calling upon them to instruct their health officers to make a regular inspection at intervals of at least once a month to secure the strict observance of the provisions.

The W. C. T. U. will have a tent on Grange Park. All White Ribboners are welcome.

TOWN AND COUNTY NEWS.

HAPPENINGS OF LOCAL INTEREST FROM ALL PARTS

Labor Day in Centre Hall was observed by laboring.

Mrs. John Parker of St. Thomas spent a day last week at the home of her sister, Mrs. Emory S. Ripka.

Mr. and Mrs. John Schoil and son, Arthur, of Altoona, spent a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Kreamer.

A baby daughter was born last week to Mr. and Mrs. Paul D. Emenhizer, at Tusseyville. Mrs. Emenhizer was Miss Edna Ishler.

D. J. Nieman's department store at Millheim will be closed today (Thursday) and to-morrow, on account of being Jewish New Year.

A number of farmers have lost cows recently from bloating. The latest farmer to sustain such a loss was James Runkle, near Tusseyville, who lost the best cow in the herd.

Calvin Smith, son of Register J. Frank Smith, has accepted a position with the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, at Crystal City, Missouri, and will leave home in a week or two.

The scarcity of tomatoes in the local gardens is said to be due to blight which struck the vines a short time ago. Few families can depend upon their gardens for their winter supply.

Lecture course tickets for the coming season, which promises to be the best yet, can be secured from Rev. R. R. Jones, secretary of the Lecture Course Committee. Don't fail to secure a seat.

Harry Lutz, a student at State College, class 1917, was instantly killed, together with his brother, a short time ago, when they stepped in the way of a freight train near Scranton, while on a search for their lost dog. Young Lutz was twenty-one years of age.

Dr. P. H. Dale and party of auto tourists of State College who several weeks ago started on a run to Lewiston, Maine, covered the distance of 700 miles in three days. The party enjoyed a royal good time in the Maine wilds and were guests of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Ham.

Schools in Gregg township opened on Monday. At Spring Mills the following enrollment was recorded the first day: High school, Prof. W. R. Jones, principal, 32; grammar, Rufus R. Finkle, teacher, 24; intermediate, A. L. Duck, teacher, 23; primary, Gertrude Musser, teacher, 28.

Mr. and Mrs. Levi Wolf and daughters Helen and Mary Jane, and Mrs. Wolf's mother, Mrs. J. Miller, made a trip in their Packard car on Thursday from Rockwood to the Lutheran parsonage where they were guests of Rev. and Mrs. D. S. Kurtz. They are former parishioners of Rev. Kurtz.

B. D. Brisbin and daughters, Mrs. H. Boon and Mrs. George Robertson, and granddaughter, Miss Alice Boor, on Friday made a trip in Mr. Brisbin's Reo car to Gettysburg and other points. They were accompanied home next day by Miss Eva Johnson and Mrs. Miller of Harrisburg, who spent Sunday at the Brisbin home.

I. A. Sweetwood, superintendent of road work on the Brush Valley road, which is in the State's plan for construction, assisted Joseph Carson, who holds a similiar job on the south side, in grading, ditching and widening the road to twenty feet, at Centre Hill, last week. It will require a month or more to reach the Old Fort, he says.

Centre Hall Lodge, I. O. O. F., has erected a stand on Grange Park and during the Encampment and Fair will be prepared to serve all kinds of refreshments, including ice cream. The big life-size baby dolls and Indian blankets, which have taken the country by storm, will also be sold—not by the paddle wheel method—but for a moderate price, within reach of everybody.

John F. Foreman, a young man claiming Penns Valley as his home, and who is going toward the top of the ladder of success, is spending a month's vacation in the far west. At the present time he is in Omaha, Nebraska, the guest of his friend, William B. Kerr, and from there he will go to Colorado. Mr. Foreman is employed as a civil engineer with Sillyman & Company, of Altoona.

D. A. Boozer was bitten in the calf of the right leg by a vicious dog, Thursday. Mr. Boozer was in the vicinity of Zion on business and when he entered the yard of the Rockey home a big black canine made for him and fastened its teeth in his leg. After being shaken off the dog took another hold and it was with considerable difficulty that the brute was called off. Mr. Boozer immediately had the wound cauterized at the Bellefonte hospital and is not suffering any bad effects.

BIG MOVE FOR NATIONAL DEFENSE

Navy Proposes Reserve of 50,000 Men.

CHANCE FOR AMATEURS

Asks Garrison and Daniels To Outline Definite Programs To Prepare For Congressional Action.

Washington.—Plans for the organization of a national naval reserve of 50,000 officers and men, upon which the navy can draw for help in an hour of need, were announced at the Navy Department.

The plan involves the organization of the retired officers and former enlisted men of the navy so that they may be ready for service in an emergency; the organization of and training of the Coast Guard for naval service, and the training of volunteer civilians whose work acquaints them with the handling of boats.

The Navy Department's statement on the plan is as follows:

"In addition to the regular navy and state naval militias, the plan of organization contemplates a national naval reserve to be constituted as follows:

"Retired Officers and Former Enlisted Men of the Navy—The organization of retired officers already exists, and a step toward securing a reserve of former enlisted men was taken last spring by Congress. While the results of this legislation have not been large during the two months it has been in effect, 110 men having been enrolled up to September 1, 1915, it is believed that an increasing number of men, whose enlistments expire, will take advantage of the opportunity offered; and it is already having the effect of increasing the number of re-enlistments.

Other Federal and State Branches.

"Other Branches of the Federal and State Governments—This means the co-ordination of the Coast Guard; that is, the revenue cutter and life-saving services; the lighthouse service, the coast survey, the State Nautical Training Schools, the harbor police, in such manner as to fit readily into the naval service at short notice. Little legislation is necessary to accomplish this, and the organization of this work is already under way.

"Volunteer Civilians—It is believed that the reserve of personnel should total 50,000 officers and men. What is particularly desired is not merely numbers, but individuals who will be capable of doing the highly specialized service which exists in modern navies. For instance, in war time the navy would need the services of possibly 1,000 additional radio operators; it would require local pilots for inside waters, help men, gunners, gasoline motor experts, signalmen, besides, of course, first-class seamen. The department has had many letters asking whether an opportunity could be given to individuals to take courses of training in these specialties. If the general plan is approved, it is hoped that next summer courses of instructions can be started, using reserves or other available ships, and giving to these who desire three or four weeks of training so that they could become of some definite use if called upon.

Chance For Amateurs.

"Any amateur radio operator, any yachtsman or motorboat enthusiast; in fact, any citizen with intelligence and application could learn how to fit into some place where he might be needed. Possibly some form of certificates could be given at the close of instruction, showing exactly what services the individual is capable of performing, the holder to be under no further obligation than to keep the Navy Department at stated periods informed of his address."

GIBBONS BEARS OLIVE BRANCH.

Cardinal After Seeing the President Is Hopeful.

Washington.—Cardinal Gibbons, of Baltimore, presented to President Wilson a confidential communication from Pope Benedict inviting and urging this Government to co-operate with the Vatican and neutral nations to bring about peace in Europe.

A conference on the same subject was held later at the State Department between Cardinal Gibbons and Secretary of State Lansing.

After his visits and confidential talk to and with the President, Cardinal Gibbons said:

"I think the prospects of peace are brightening."

Jackson, Ky.—Maud Smith, 3-year-old daughter of Mrs. Celina Smith, was sent by parcel post on a 40-mile journey through the mountains to the bedside of her mother, who is ill here. MEXICAN BANDITS KILL AMERICANS

Two Victims of a Raid Across the Border.

TROOPS PURSUE MEXICANS

One of the Mexicans Is Killed, But the Balance Escape—Three Americans Had Been Kidnapped Near Brownsville By the Mexicans.

Brownsville, Tex.—The bullet-riddled bodies of two Americans who were kidnapped by Mexican bandits, about 12 miles north of here, were found in the bed of a dried lake.

They were Earl Donaldson, a farmer, who came here from Fayette, Mo., two weeks ago, and an engineer named Smith, engaged in concrete construction work on an irrigation canal.

In a fight between a platoon of United States infantry and 16 outlaws, one of the Mexicans was killed and the rest of the band put to rout. The fight occurred 11 miles north of here. None of the Americans were hurt.

The band to which was ascribed the burning of a trestle north of here was held responsible for the kidnapping of three Americans and the burning of a pumping station. A contractor named Stanley Dodds managed to make his escape when the American troopers appeared and fired on the Mexicans.

Dodds was said to have been unharmed by the outlaws because one of the band told the others that Dodds was a German. His hat and shoes, however, were taken.

Dodds, on escaping from the kidnappers, went to a ranch house, where he telephoned regarding his safety.

The other Americans were carried away by the Mexicans and their fate was not learned until their bodies were found.

Lieutenant Faulkner, who commanded a detachment searching for outlaw Mexicans, reported that the automobile trucks bearing the Americans were traveling along the old Alice stagecoach road, when a band was seen. Called upon to halt, six of the band showed fight, using an irrigation canal as a trench, while 10 fled down the canal. The five, after a short fight, also escaped, leaving their dead comrade.

Following a fight Aviation Lieutenant Joseph C. Morrow, pilot, with Lieutenant B. O. Jones, observer, reported that United States cavalry and infantry there were well-disposed throughout the section in which there were believed to be from 50 to 60 Mexican bandits. Further fighting was expected.

At the Fresno Irrigation Canal, the bandits fired probably a score of shots at Perry Clark, an American land clearing contractor, but none took effect.

A Mexican who saw and talked to members of the band, said they were trying to force the Mexican population of this section to join them. All were reported to be strangers in this section.

VICTORY FOR DIPLOMACY

Noncombatants To Be Safeguarded. Assurance From German Ambassador Ends Crisis Over Arabic.

Washington. — Germany officially notified the United States that she would conduct her submarine warfare in accordance with the principles of international law as construed and laid down in this Government's notes to Germany on that subject.

This concession practically ends the German-American crisis.

The promise and guarantee of Germany are that she will not sink liners without warning and without making provision for the safety of the lives of noncombatants, if the liners do not try to escape or offer resistance.

Secretary of State Lansing and officials close to the President regard the concessions of Germany as "a recognition of the fundamental principle for which we (the Administration) have contended."

VON BERNSTORFF PRESENTS PLEDGE.

The official statement of the attitude of Germany was conveyed in the following letter from Count von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador, to Secretary of State Lansing:

My Dear Mr. Secretary:

With reference to our conversation of this morning, I beg to inform you that my instructions concerning our answer to your last Lusitania note contain the following passage:

"Liners will not be sunk by our submarines without warning and without safety of the lives of noncombatants, provided that the liners do not try to escape or offer resistance."

Although I know that you do not wish to discuss the Lusitania question till the Arabic incident has been definitely and satisfactorily settled. I desire to inform you of the above because this policy of my Government was decided on before the Arabic incident occurred.

I have no objection to your making any use you may please of the above information.

I remain, my dear Mr. Lansing,
Very sincerely yours,
J. BERNSTORFF.

Appended to the Ambassador's letter as given out by Secretary Lansing was the following statement by Mr. Lansing:

"In view of the clearness of the foregoing statement, it seems needless to make any comment in regard to it, other than to say that it appears to be a recognition of the fundamental principle for which we have contended.

Previous to filing his letter the Ambassador had a 15-minute conversation with Mr. Lansing at the State Department.

Half-Brother Brother Is Ruling Of Court—Girl Campers Save Youth From Drowning—Want Lincoln Road.

H. R. Leonard, of New Castle, Delaware, shell expert, one of the three men hurt in the Bethlehem Steel Company shell explosion test at the Redington proving grounds, in which two others were killed, had a narrow escape from dying at a hospital in South Bethlehem. It so happened that a sharp piece of steel from the shell in Leonard's left leg worked itself upward and severed an artery, the man nearly bleeding to death before discovered.

Beverly W. Kunkel, Ph. D., professor of zoology at Beloit College, Wisconsin, has been appointed professor of biology and head of that department at Lafayete College. He is to take the place made vacant by the sudden death of Prof. Alvin Davison, some weeks ago. Prof. Kunkel was born in Harrisburg, in 1881, was a member of the faculty at Yale for seven years and did original research work in Wiedersheim's Laboratory, Freiburg, Germany.

While Miss Anna Foley and Miss Elizabeth Dougherty, members of a Baltimore party camping along the North Branch of the Susquehanna near Northumberland, were out boating, they saw John Trench and William Deppen, of Shamokin, struggling to catch hold of an upturned boat. Being expert swimmers, the young women jumped into ten feet of water, and, catching the drifting boat, pushed it toward the men. They grasped it and were pulled to safety.

Talk among trainmen was tabooed by the Pennsylvania Railroad. N. W. Smith, superintendent of the Middle Division, caused to be posted on all company bulletin boards the following notice: "Discussion of matters pertaining to the European war in passenger trainmen's rest rooms or about the station at Altoona, among trainmen themselves, or with the janitors, who mostly are of foreign birth, is prohibited."

A. L. Shaw, of the State police force, located in Pottsville, was stabbed in the neck by Mike Bruza, at Minersville. Shaw's wound was so jagged that the jugular vein was visible, the knife missing it by only a hair's breadth. Bruza, after his arrest, said he did the stabbing because he was afraid Shaw and other State troopers might arrest him, although he said he did nothing to deserve it.

Judge Evans decided that a half-brother is a brother in the eyes of the law, when he made permanent the injunction restraining Miss Hazel Hughes, of Espy, from filling a position as teacher, to which she was elected by majority vote of the School Board, one member of which was her father's half-brother.

General C. T. O'Neill, commanding the Fourth Brigade, N. G. P., has issued orders for the parading of the entire Fourth Infantry on October 7, in connection with the semi-centennial celebration at South Bethlehem.

SIX DAY'S LIMIT FOR 'PHONE GIRLS

Attorney General Rules Women Operators Must Come Within Terms Of Statute.

Harrisburg.—In an opinion given to the Department of Labor and Industry, Attorney General Brown holds that women may not be employed as railroad telegraphers and telephone operators more than six days a week, even though the work be very light.

The opinion is the first to be given on this feature of the Women's Employment Act of 1913, and is very positive in its language. The Attorney General says:

"You forward the letter of two telegraph and two telephone operators of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company and request an opinion based upon their letter as to whether the Act of July 25, 1913, P. L. 1024, regulating the labor of women, is mandatory, insofar as it prohibits working more than six days in one week.

"The Act provides, in unmistakable terms in Section 3, 'no female shall be employed or permitted to work in, or in connection with, any establishment for more than six days in any one week, etc.

"This department heretofore has interpreted this law as liberally as possible, so as not to work hardship, and we have considered this request with reference to the facts stated in the letter submitted with your request, viz., that 'this provision of the law ultimately will close this line of work to women,' with a possible view to finding some method for so construing it as not to work such result.

"We are unable so to do. The language is plain. There is no room for any other construction. The prohibition that 'no female shall be employed for more than six days in any one week,' is mandatory. We are not permitted to deviate from the plain letter of the statute. The appeal for relief, if the hardship exists as indicated in the letter which you submit, must be made to the Legislature, but, as long as the law stands now as written, I advise you that it is unlawful to permit women to work in any establishment more than six days in any one week."

Compliment Stewart.

Adjutant General Thomas J. Stewart is being complimented upon the splendid record of attendance of all organizations of the National Guard at the summer encampments. The percentage of absences was nine per cent. for the whole militia of over 11,500, the smallest known, and a considerable improvement over other States and even of organizations of the regular army. The record has attracted national attention. It is believed that but for one or two instances which prevented men from attending infantry encampments, the record would have been lower than ordinarily allowed for sickness among militiamen or regulars.

Water Supply Unwholesome.

Complaint was filed with the Public Service Commission by the Borough of Waynesburg, Green county, which charges that the Waynesburg Water Company maintains "an inadequate and unwholesome supply of water," and that the rates are excessive, the company over-capitalized and the returns on the investment unreasonable and excessive. It also is alleged that the company notified consumers to boil water it furnished in the summer of 1914.

Tolliver Gulch's New Mayor

By VICTOR RADCLIFFE

(Copyright, 1915, by W. G. Chapman.)

The mayor of Tolliver Gulch drew up his horse as a piercing scream rang out beyond the belt of timber lining the lonely mountain road he was traversing. Then noting a cloud of smoke through the trees he diverged from the trail, got beyond the barrier and made out the little town of Golconda in the distance, and nearer at hand on its outskirts a lonely hut, ablaze below and a woman outside, wringing her hands and shrieking helplessly.

New mayoralty honors clustered thick and newly about John Griffiths at Tolliver Gulch, but here at a distance from his home town, and ever chivalrous and helpful, he forgot dignity. He dashed up to the side of the distracted woman within three minutes, brought his steed to its haunches, summarily leaped to the ground and shouted forth:

"Anyone in the building?"

"No! No!" cried the woman, "but all my papers are. They will be lost; we will be ruined—oh, save them! Save them!"

She was a tiny bit of humanity, peppery and active, Griffith saw that, but she had evidently not been able to lift a heavy ladder that she had dragged to the spot.

"Where are the papers?" inquired Griffiths.

"Up in the little low attic. Beyond that window," and she pointed upwards. "They're in a box on top of a big chest. "No! No!" she added, frantically, as Griffiths made a movement as if to rush in through the open lower door. "It's all ablaze in there. The ladder; oh, quick! quick! Never mind anything but the papers."

John Griffiths had the ladder speedily in place. He was not even smudged, so promptly and deftly did he reach the attic, secure the wooden box described and place it in the possession of its anxious, trembling and grateful woman.

"The old hut is gone, and I'm glad of it!" she exclaimed. "It was not fit to live in and hasn't been for a long time. That lazy, roving husband of mine will have a startler when he comes back, and I'm glad of that, too! The papers—they're saved, thank goodness! They mean a good deal to me, for they are deeds, and mine claims and all that. Mister, if a ten-dollar bill—"

"Thank you, but I've done a simple duty, and glad to be a help to you," interrupted Griffiths. "Can I be of anq further assistance?"

"No, mister, but I'll never forget your kindness. I've a sister in town who will take me in till my husband shows up—the worthless, wandering critter!"

The mayor of Tolliver Gulch smiled to himself as he recognized the diminutive little lady as a being with a spirit of her own. Then he rode on his way, thinking of another certain little lady who filled his thoughts continually. It was a rough community among whom he had cast his lot at the Gulch, but he had found a jewel rare amid the incongruous environment. It was Velma Dalton, the daughter of the district judge. Griffiths, as a rising young lawyer, had won the good opinion of the judge. The latter represented the reform element of the struggling border settlement. It was through his influence and support that Griffiths had been elected mayor.

That position was proving anything but a bed of roses. The rough element of the Gulch was opposed to innovations. Defeated at the polls, they went about cross-grained and vengeful. There were mutterings of discontent and veiled threats. The outcast element, however, feared the law, and the dignity and determination of the judge had so far prevented any serious outbreak.

Griffiths reached the Gulch just after dark. As he passed the Red Beaver tavern he caught the echoes of some wild jubilation. He learned its cause when he reached home. His landlady looked frightened and agitated.

"Oh, I am so glad you have got home safe!" she exclaimed. "They have been here."

"Who has been here?" questioned Griffiths.

"The committee from the rustlers. It's about renewing the license of the dance hall, sir."

"I answered them once," spoke Griffiths, his lips setting firmly. "They have had my ultimatum."

"Yes, sir; but they threaten a big row. They had Giant Gabe with them, and his gang. It seems they've hired him to come here and upset the town, if you don't give way."

"Not an inch!" pronounced Griffiths, determinedly.

"Then, sir, don't show yourself on the streets. The mob is drunk and ugly, and bound to do you up if you don't grant that license."

Griffiths paid no attention to this warning. He felt it beneath his dignity. He called upon Velma that same evening. Her father was serious and she anxious over the situation. Neither, however, attempted to influence him to recede one step from his fixed position regarding the carrying out of the law.

The next morning Griffiths proceeded quietly to his office. He had heard of a wild debauch at the tavern and of this imported bravo, Giant Gabe, and his gang. It seems they had appeared in similar circumstances as hirelings to help the half-subdued rowdy element of the towns voting for reform, hoping to intimidate the champions of the new movement.

The convivialists of the evening previous were, it seemed, sleeping off the effects of their debauch during the morning. Just after noon, however, as Griffiths was crossing the public square he saw a hooting, straggling mob pouring out through the doors of the tavern.

At their head was a red-shirted, brawny-fisted fellow over six feet in height and viciously intoxicated. Griffiths doubted not that this was Giant Gabe. Urged by the crowd he hustled along to the spot where Griffiths had halted. He squared off in front of him, egged on by his turbulent cohorts.

"You're the mayor, they tell me!" he bellowed. "Well, I'm nominated by the people to protect their liberties. Rattlesnakes—I eat 'em!"

Giant Gabe glared horribly, leaped up two feet in the air and cracked his heels together.

"Dnawite!" he roared—"I sleep over a box of it!"

Calmly Griffiths regarded the mouthy demagogue, but planted firmly, his glance noting every movement of the raging bully.

"Powder and shot—my chewing gum! You goody-doody specimen of a tenderfoot, I'm going to wipe you out with one whack!"

Swish! Giant Gabe struck out, but Griffiths dodged. Then up came his fist. The burly bully lay in a heap at his feet.

"None of that, you big coward!"

A woman's rasping tones uttered the words. She shot through the crowd, and as Giant Gabe tugged at his belt for a revolver, grabbed him by one ear.

"You great hulking bluffer!" she cried. "You'd shoot at the unarmed man, eh? There! and there! and there!" and she cuffed him soundly. "Know who this man is?" she demanded, pointing to the mayor. "He's the man who saved all our valuable papers when our old shanty burned down. March!"

Giant Gabe struggled to his feet and slouched away from the spot. Most of the crowd roared with laughter. The tiny woman dominated the great rugged giant as though he were a pigmy.

An hour later word went out from Giant Gabe to his adherents to return to their homes. To the rebellious home-town mob Gabe sent other word, that if any further move was made against the new mayor "he would wade in and clean out the crowd, tavern and all!"

So Nancy, wife of Giant Gabe, saved the day, and Tolliver Gulch settled down into respectability, and its mayor married Velma Dalton.

Joint Owners Held Responsible.

During the last two years traveling salesmen in the middle western and western states have discovered a pleasant and cheap mode of traveling from town to town along their routes, by pooling their funds and investing in an automobile. In most cases the car actually was bought by one of four or five drummers who usually traveled together, the others contributing the running expenses, lunches, etc., to the upkeep. As a result, rather reckless driving at night, and frequent smash-ups on the roads, occurred when the "part-owners" took the steering wheel. The Nebraska supreme court decided recently that each and every "contributor" to the upkeep of the car was an "owner" in the eyes of the law, and strictly responsible for all damage done by its operation. Speeding at night has since shown a material decrease in the ranks of the knights of the suitcase."—Scientific American.

A PATROL BOAT AVENGED ARABIC

U Boat Which Torpedoed Liner Sent to Bottom.

ANTICIPATED IN BERLIN

Caught In Attack On Another Ship. Entire Crew Of Submarine Perished When It Sank.

Liverpool.—The German submarine which sank the White Star liner Arabic was sunk the following day by a British patrol boat. This fact was confirmed here.

While the submarine was engaged in trying to hold up the Leyland liner Nicosian a British patrol boat came up and shelled the submarine. All the members of the submarine lost their lives.

The Arabic was sunk on August 20. The Nicosian reached Liverpool on August 21 and reported that she had been attacked by a submarine, but had managed to escape safely.

Anticipated In Berlin.

Berlin.—The German Admiralty advanced the suggestion that the submarine which may have torpedoed the steamer Arabic possibly had foundered or had been sunk by the British. A high official of the Admiralty, in again declaring that absolutely no news on the sinking of the Arabic was yet available, said:

"Would it not be lamentable if the submarine should have been lost and we should never learn what happened soon after the Arabic sank? I said we should in all probability have the details by the end of August or early in September at the latest. Most of our boats which were on the west coast of England at the time have now returned, but none so far knows anything about the Arabic.

"It probably will be possible within a very short time—I cannot say precisely how many days—to tell whether our apprehensions regarding the submarine are correct."

The official would not say whether one or more of the submarines in question still were out nor how long any one vessel had been away from its base, but stated suggestively:

"They seldom remain out longer than three weeks and we usually get a report on any torpedoing operations in from 8 to 14 days—rarely later than a fortnight after the occurrence."

FAILS TO FIND LYNCHERS.

Georgia Jury Reports No Evidence Against Leo Frank's Slayers.

Marietta, Ga. — The Cobb county grand jury reported that it had been unable to find enough evidence, after a two days' examination of witnesses, to indict anyone for the lynching of Leo M. Frank. The report stated:

"We have found several clues, but we have been unable to find anyone who could identify any party. We have done our best, under our oath, and we regret to state that we have been unable to find enough evidence to indict anyone for this crime."

After stating that the jury had the active co-operation of Governor Harris, the State Attorney-General, Solicitor Herbert Clay and other officials of Cobb county, the report adds:

"We have been unable to connect anybody with the perpetration of this offense, or to identify anyone who was connected with it, although we have investigated the information furnished us by officers and other parties and have followed up letters, signed and unsigned, and to this end we have subpoenaed and examined many witnesses in an effort to disclose the perpetrators of this crime, but none of these witnesses could identify any of the parties."

GERMANS PRESS ON TO GRODNO

Town of Lipsk, in Poland is Captured By Storm.

RUSSIANS STILL IN RETREAT

Germans Announce a Further Advance On the Russian Front—The Capture Of 1,600 Prisoners and Seven Cannon Announced.

Berlin (via London). — German forces have made a further advance on the Russian fortress of Grodno, the only one of their fortified positions near the German border which still remains in their possession. Official announcement was made here of the capture of Lipsk, in northern Russian Poland, about 20 miles to the west of Grodno. The statement follows:

"There are no special incidents to report from the western theater of war.

Eastern theater: Army group of Field Marshal Von Hindenburg: The troops of General Von Bessler are stationed in the region surrounding the bridge head south of Freidrichstadt. In an engagement east of the Niemen the army of General Von Eichhorn reached a point northeast of Olita. An additional 1,600 prisoners and seven cannon were captured. In the direction of Grodno the town of Lipsk, on the Bohr River, was taken by storm and the enemy forced to surrender. The Widra, a tributary of the Sukelka, was crossed by our troops. The eastern border of the forest directly east of Bialystok has been reached at several points.

"Army group of Prince Leopold: In the Bielobiezh forest fighting goes on for possession of the crossing over the upper Narew. German and Austro-Hungarian troops under General Von Woyrsch drove the enemy out of his position at Suchodol, on the eastern border of the forest, and at Szereszowo and are now closely pursuing him.

"Army group of Field Marshal Von Mackensen: In order to render possible the retreat of their rear-guard divisions through the marsh district, the Russians made a stand once more on a line in the Koddubno district, south of Kobrin. They were defeated, although they brought back and threw into the battle some divisions which previously had been falling back."

AUSTRIANS RETREAT.

Milan.—The Austrians are in full retreat at two points. One is in the Val Sugana, where they are blowing up bridges and viaducts and destroying all roads and railways as they retire.

The other is in the region of the upper Isonzo, where the Italian Alpini is wresting an important mountain summit from the Austrian grip.

The latest official reports show that the Italians are now well advanced beyond Plezzo, and are attacking the summit of Monte Rombon, 6,000 feet high, which overlooks the valley of the Coritenaz, a tributary of the Isonso, and also commands the highway that culminates in Predil Pass, at a height of 3,500 feet, and thence descends into the Zebach Valley, where the Italians captured positions about a week ago.

The Austrians are in a precarious position at Tarvis, as well as at Tolmino and Gorizia, not to mention the strong series of defenses they lost in the Val Sugana.

THE TURKISH REPORT.

Constantinople (via London).—The following communication on the progress of operation in the Dardanelles was issued by the Turkish War Office:

"The enemy on Saturday renewed stubborn attacks in the district of Anafarta, which were repulsed with losses to the enemy. Counter-attacking, we recaptured trenches before our center, killing occupants.

"Our airmen, who took part in the battle, successfully dropped bombs on hostile camp positions."

MASSACRE BY TURKS REPORTED.

Moslems Said To Have Slain Armenians In Ismid.

Ismid lied at the head of the Gulf of Ismid, in Asia Minor, about 56 miles southeast of Constantinople. It has been the residence of both Greek and Armenian archbishops. Its population is about 25,000.

AILMENTS OF BABIES

MANY OF THEM ARE EASILY PREVENTABLE.

Mother, by Wise Management, May Do Away With a Great Deal of the Troubles Which So Frequently Affect the Little Ones.

(Prepared by the Children's Bureau, U. S. Department of Labor.)

It is no doubt true, many times, that a fretful, unhappy baby is made so quite unnecessarily, and instead of rocking or patting him, or walking up and down with him in her arms, or possibly giving him a dose of medicine to quiet him, the mother should seek the cause of his discomfort and remove it.

It may be that the baby is thirsty. There is no doubt that babies frequently suffer from thirst. It is necessary, particularly in summer, to give plenty of drinking water to all children who are too young to get it for themselves. A drink of water will often satisfy a fretful baby and sometimes it is all that is needed to send a restless one off into quiet sleep.

One of the most frequent sources of misery for the baby is found in his clothing, especially in hot weather, when any clothing is a burden to him to wear. So many babies are overdressed that it is no wonder they fret. Compelled to wear woolen underwear, knitted socks, stiffly starched caps and dresses it is only natural that they should protest vigorously. Neither wool nor starch has any place in the clothing of the baby in hot weather.

One of the troubles from which a baby often suffers is prickly heat. This ailment appears as a fine red rash usually on the neck and shoulders and gradually spreads to the head, face and arms. It is caused by overheating, due either to hot weather or to the fact that the baby is too warmly dressed. The rash comes and goes with the heat, and causes intense itching. The remedy for it is to take off all the clothing and give the baby a sponge bath in tepid water in which common baking soda has been dissolved. Use one tablespoonful of soda to two quarts of water. Use no soap, and do not rub the skin, but pat it dry with a soft towel. After the skin is thoroughly dry, dust the inflamed surfaces with a plain talcum powder.

This ailment, like all others, is more readily prevented than cured. Frequent cool baths, very little clothing, simple food and living in cool rooms, or in the open air will probably save the summer baby from much of the annoyance of prickly heat and other more serious ills.

Fat babies are very apt to suffer from chafing, especially in hot weather. It appears as a redness of the skin in the buttocks or in the armpits, or wherever two skin surfaces persistently rub together.

Much the same treatment is required as in prickly heat. Never use soap on an inflamed skin. Instead use a soda, bran or starch bath, as advised in a former article. Directions for these baths are given in a publication called "Infant Care," which can be had, free of charge, by addressing a request to the Chief of the Children's bureau, U. S. Department of Labor, Washington, D. C.

Great care should be taken not to let the baby scratch the skin, when it is irritated. Sift together two parts powdered cornstarch and one part boric acid, and use it freely on the chafed parts. Remove wet or soiled diapers at once. Wash and dry the flesh thoroughly, then dust the powder freely between the legs.

Milk Biscuits.

Required, one gill (one-fourth pint) of milk, one ounce of butetr, one-half pound of flour, one teaspoonful of baking powder. Put the milk in a saucepan, add butter, and put it on the fire to warm. Put one-half pound of flour into a basin, with one teaspoonful of baking powder. When the milk is hot pour in the flour, and stir into a smooth paste; roll out very thin, and cut out with a tumbler floured at the top. Grease a tin and place biscuits in the oven to bake for 20 minutes.

Rice Croquettes.

One-half cupful well washed rice cooked in one pint milk in double boiler till absorbed; add two tablespoonfuls sugar, one tablespoonful butter, a bit of grated lemon and two well-beaten eggs; mix thoroughly and spread on a plate to cool; shape with a knife, dip in beaten eggs, then crumbs, and fry in deep hot fat. Particularly nice with roast beef.

Spice Cake.

One cupful of sugar, one tablespoonful of butter or lard, one cupful of sour milk, one cupful of raisins, one tablespoonful of soda, two cupfuls flour, a pinch of salt if you use lard, one teaspoonful of cinnamon and one-half teaspoonful of cloves; mix in the order given and this cake will keep moist for a long time.

When Fruit Is Too Acid.

When cooking sour fruit, add a pinch of carbonate of soda to the puice, it will not then need so much sugar for sweetening.

Tarts and Pies.

Some of the best cooks bake only the crust of tarts and fruit pies, putting in the filling of cooked fruit when cold.

To Remove Starch Stains.

Wet the scorched places, rub with soap and bleach in the sun.

LOCALS

Chas. D. Bartholomew spent Sunday with his family in Altoona.

Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Smith attended a reunion of the Smith families at Montgomery, on Saturday.

Rev. and Mrs. Paul Brown and family on Saturday left Centre Hall for Millheim where they will make their home for the winter.

Teachers in the borough schools would be pleased if parents would keep their children at home from school at noon until 12:30 o'clock.

Miss Anna Stover, who last spring graduated from the Altoona hospital, spent a few days last week at the home of her sister, Mrs. William McClenahan and is now visiting relatives in Boalsburg.

Mrs. T. W. Simkins was called to the home of her brother, James R. Schuyler, at Bloomsburg, on Wednesday, on account of a serious operation which will be performed upon him at the Scranton hospital.

F. V. Goodhart and sisters, Misses Margaret and Sarah, the latter from Cleveland, Ohio, and Miss Iona Tibbets of Bethel, Maine, autoed to Milroy on Thursday, where with another sister, Mrs. W. Winegarder, they spent the day in motoring.

Mrs. Mary Rearick and daughter, Miss Savilla Rearick, attended a picnic held by the Ladies' Home and Foreign Missionary Society of the Presbyterian church, at Milroy, last Thursday. They were accompanied home on Friday by W. O. Rearick and son Rufus and wife.

In this issue, on the first page, Judge Orvis refutes charges made against him by individuals who appear to be opposed to him for other reasons than the temperance views they hold. The letter, short and to the point, should be read by every one of the Reporter's readers. It ought to convince everyone who wishes to be fair, that Judge Orvis at no time was warped in his decisions by any financial interest in booze.

A Very Fine Peach Orchard.

'Squire Cyrus Brungart is now reaping the reward of the time and labor spent in his peach orchard during the blossoming season in the spring of the year. What results are to be obtained by employing the best methods in the cultivation of peaches may be seen by anyone who will take the time to view Mr. Brungart's orchard which now presents a most beautiful sight with row after row of trees loaded to the breaking point with peaches perfect in color and without blemish. Earlier in the season a thinning process reduced the number on each tree so that the remainder had every opportunity to develop to the highest point and surely these peaches have. To bring this fruit which is generally believed to fail to reach its best state in this section of country to such development shows what can be done when grey matter and brawn work hand in hand. Spraying, of course, is Mr. Brungart's secret of success in the cultivation of peaches and this he did not only once, but three or four time, cleaning each tree with spraying material so that scale and all other form of disease were thoroughly eradicated. The result is shown by the present product. No more highly flavored fruit is to be had than the Elberta or Belle of Georgia peaches, of which Mr. Brungart has many trees, and for size they surpass almost anything that has ever been shipped here from the country which boasts of growing the only real peaches.

There is a big demand for Mr. Brungart's crop but he desires to sell at home in order to do as little hauling as possible. Peaches may be had at his orchard for $1.20 per bushel. They are ready now.

750 Freshmen at State College.

Pennsylvania State College will this year have a freshman class of 750 at least. Up to the present time 700 applicants have been enrolled in full standing. About 75 of these are young women.

Hampered by lack of accommodations for all who apply, only those who can fully qualify will be received. In this particular the State College occupies an unusual position in the college world. No one has been admitted with any entrance conditions whatsoever. A. H. Espenshade, the college registar, stated that in all likihood he would be unable to admit even all those who can meet the entrance requirements. He estimated that 1,000 freshmen could be received this year if the college could accept applicants willing to enter with one or two conditions.

In addition to the regular freshman class there will be 150 young men registered in the two-year course in agriculture. There will be probably forty candidates for advanced degrees, thirty of whom will come from other colleges and universities. There is no room at State College for special students.

The Spring Mills baseball club is closing the most successful year in its history and culminated its grand record by winning two games on Saturday. At Linden Hall they won a 9-2 victory, Gramley for Spring Mills, and Ross for Linden Hall, being the box artists. In the afternoon, on home ground, they took Millheim into camp by the one-sided score of 17-7. Corman pitched his team to victory while Millheim worked Rishel and Kessler. The Spring Mills club has defeated almost every team in the valley and has undisputed right to first place among the amateur clubs.

DEATHS.

Death came suddenly upon Mrs. Ellen B. Weiser, widow of the late Benjamin S. Weiser, at the home of her son, John H. Weiser, who farms the Michael Rossman farm, near Tusseyville, on Tuesday morning at 9:30 o'clock. Mrs. Weiser was subject to neuralgic attacks of the heart and it was one of these attacks which proved fatal when she was seized on Monday afternoon. She lingered in an unconscious state until death relieved her of her sufferings at the time stated. The body will be conveyed to the home of her son, Edward S. Weiser, at Millheim, today (Thursday), at whose home funeral services will be held Friday morning, interment following in the Union cemetery, Rev. M. D. Geesey of the Lutheran church officiating.

Mrs. Weiser was the daughter of Lucy and John Smith and was born at Howard, being at the time of her death sixty-six years, six months and twenty-one days old. She was married to Benjamin S. Weiser who preceded her to the beyond twenty-four years ago. It had been her custom in late years to divide her time among her children and for the past few months was with the son at whose home she died. Sunday previous to her death she attended Harvest Home services in the Union church at Tusseyville. Since early life she was a member of the Lutheran church, and was a kind and loving mother, whose life was full of good deeds and unselfish devotion. Surviving her are three sons and a daughter, namely, Charles, Pasadena, California; John H., Tusseyville; Edward S., Millheim; Mrs. Elmer Miller, Altoona. Two brothers and one sister also survive—Job and Christ Smith of Clinton county, Michigan, and Mrs. Mary Aikey, of Hartleton. Also three half sisters, namely, Mrs. Foster Sharer, Mrs. William Smith, Zion; Mrs. Mervin Kuhn, of Boalsburg.

The Jewell City, Kans., Republican of last week contained the following in regard to the death of Benjamin Musser, whose death occurred at Kansas City, Mo.:

Benjamin Musser was born in Spring Mills, Centre county, Pa., Jan. 12, 1851, and moved to Orangeville, Ill., in 1856. He enlisted in the Union army in 1862 and served to the end of the war in Co. A, 46th Illinois volunteer regiment. His brother, John Musser, was captain of the company to which Benjamin belonged and two other brothers, James and Charles, were members of the company. At the battle of Shiloh Capt. Musser was shot through the leg. Benjamin helped carry his brother out of the battle and got him on a hospital ship, but it was three days before the services of a surgeon could be secured. The leg was amputated, but it was too late and Captain Musser died.

After the war Mr. Musser and his brothers Michael and James engaged in the mercantile business at Orangeville, Ill. In 1873 he was married to Miss Caroline Stout who survives him. In 1880 he and his brother, William Musser, came to Jewell and opened a private bank known as the Citizen's bank, which in 1889 was consolidated with the First National Bank.

Mr. Musser died at the home of his niece, Mrs. D. L. Ramsdell, daughter of George Musser, 3415 Broadway, Kansas City, Mo.

Funeral services were held at the Methodist church, south, in Excelsior Springs, Missouri, and the remains were deposited in a crypt of the Crown Hill Mausoleum. Mr. Musser was one of a family of eleven children, only two brothers surviving. He acquired considerable wealth, his estate at the time of his death amounting to $160,000. In his will one half of the estate goes to his wife.

Miss Annie Harry died at her home in Smullton Monday night at ten o'clock, following two years' illness with catarrh and rheumatism, aged about thirty-seven years. Funeral services will be held this (Thursday) morning in the Reformed church at Rebersburg and interment made in the Union cemetery, Rev. A. G. Stauffer officiating. Surviving her are her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Serenes Harry, with whom she made her home, and the following brothers and sisters; namely, Irvin, Mill Hall; Ernest, at home; Edward, Mrs. Harry Stoner, Mrs. Charles Eddy, Altoona; Miss Aggie Harry, State College. Prior to her sickness, Miss Harry was employed in a large store in Altoona.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Waite of Pleasant Gap are mourning the death of their little son, Paul E. Waite, aged one year and four months, which occurred Monday evening after a short illness with whooping cough. Funeral services were held Wednesday morning and interment took place at Pleasant Gap. Funeral director F. V. Goodhart of Centre Hall had charge of the funeral.

Samuel D. Musser, a former resident of Millheim, died at the home of his daughter in Scranton, on Friday, of senility, being in his eighty-third year. His body was shipped to Coburn on Monday and burial was made in the Millheim cemetery, Rev. M. D. Geesey officiating. Deceased was at one time associated with J. C. Smith in the hardware business in Millheim and left that place about twenty-eight years ago.

TURN TO THE PANNIER

FRENCH MODISTES TAKE UP THE NEW STYLE.

Old Fashion Revived and in Pronounced Form — Has Much to Recommend It From the Point of Beauty.

At the Newport fashion show as well as at the openings in Paris, there was an undoubted preference shown to the pannier. Lucille has advocated it for six months and will continue to do so, as her new and wonderfully lovely costumes for Florence Walton have proved.

In these she makes the pannier of tulle or gold lace, sometimes wired to stand out, again bunched high in masses of materials. She has also returned to favor the afternoon frock of colored silk with a fichu of organdie and high loopings of the fabric over the skirt, a kind of Mozartian costume which is quite fetching.

Paris has shown an even more pronounced form of the pannier borrowed from Marie Antoinette's day. The skirt of the special frock that has caused much comment has a flounce of blue chiffon edged with velvet ribbon, over which are panniers of flowered yellow taffeta. This fabric extends above the belt to form half of the bodice, the other half being built of chiffon with shoulder straps of blue velvet.

Panniers are not exactly the kind of thing that one wears well in the street, but for the evening they are charming. Made of the soft taffeta that will remain fashionable this winter, or in tulle edged with brilliant metal embroidery, they present a pleasing contrast to the type of evening frock that the designers have given us for several seasons.

If the fashion for combining lace with satin or flowered silk is actually taken up as it deserves to be, then the pannier will be the most expressive way of handling these two materials in juxtaposition. Silk that is embossed with large flowers of metal will have its place among the evening fabrics and no one wants more than a yard or two of it on a gown. To use it as a pannier or side drapery of some kind will be displaying it to its best advantage over tulle or tea-colored lace.

Patch Bag.

Now just where do you keep your patches? Do you let them lie in an untidy fashion in a bureau drawer? Do you throw them into the sewing basket with the rest of your sewing materials or do you keep them in a box or bag? Either one of the last two places is the most convenient receptacle for the purpose. The latter can be made of white or tan linen or rep. A very artistic patch bag seen recently was made of white rep. It was rectangular in shape and its opening was concealed by means of a flap. On the flap were cubist designs which were quite appropriate for the type of bag they adorned.

BROADCLOTH SUIT

Black chiffon broadcloth suit with circular skirt scalloped at the bottom and plaited around the hips. The jacket is short, coming to the waist, and buttons down the front. High collar opens at the neck. A large butterfly bow is tied in the back. The cuffs are high and plaited, coming to a point.

MAKING USE OF "SQUARES"

Hint for Those Who Have an Oversupply of Those Always Useful Little Articles.

"I have a number of these square crash doilies which I had intended for a luncheon set before I was married," said Mrs. Bride-of-a-Month, "but I have so many luncheon sets now for wedding and shower gifts that I know I'll never use them. It's such a shame to see good work going to waste, and I hate little doilies lying promiscuously around under vases and such."

"I know just how you feel," interrupted Mrs. Bride-of-a-Year. "I had a half dozen beautiful little squares all embroidered in dull blue on crash, but I made use of them. First of all, I joined three of them with rather wide cluny insertion to make a scarf for my blue-and-white guest room dressing table. Then I edged two more with the narrow cluny edging, cut a round hole in the middle and used them as candleshades for the glass candlesticks for the same dressing table, and the sixth made half of a cute little bag that every feminine guest can use when she finds it hanging on her dressing table. I could have used several more pincushions and tray covers and I did have an idea of making four more and joining them together for a boudoir pillow. I may do it yet."

PRETTY AND EASY TO MAKE

Costume for Small Girl That Will Give Very Little Trouble to Her Mother.

With finely embroidered flouncings one can turn out, as if by magic, the adorable, tiny confections that make up a tiny girl's wardrobe. The edging does away with the necessity of a hem; it can be tied over the shoulders with ribbons and gathered around the neck so that there are practically but two kinds to be run — the underarm and a placket at the back, and the dress is made. I never tried, but I am sure it would not be beyond one's powers to turn out two such little frocks in an afternoon, for they seem no more than doll's clothes.

The cunning little design shown here concedes a trifle more to elaboration, for there are many tiny tucks run through the material to hold it in at a high waist line. They should not be more than an inch and a half long, and there are a few others half that length distributed around the top of the dress under the cord that marks the rounded neck.

Wee sleeves in the shape of a ruffle edge of the embroidery are set around the armholes and caught up on the shoulders with bows of colored ribbon or black velvet.

Dotted swiss or plain sheer batiste are both lovely fabrics for this quaint and simple little garment.—Lillian Young in Washington Star.

Crocheted Hatbands.

To match the delightful silk sport coats that "everyone" is wearing, there are being displayed narrow crocheted hatbands in all the bright sports colors. Some of the purples, greens, reds and yellows show daring enough borders to revive the old joke of "listening to the band on your hat." However, they are most attractive, these crocheted bands, and offer an excuse for the eager worker to exercise her originality and artistic taste. Many of them are finished with a fringe of twisted silk. Usually the bands are about two inches wide and long enough to wind about the average size crown and tie in a knot and short ends at one side. Hatband, necktie and belt to match would make a beautiful gift for the girl with athletic tastes.

Everything Now to Be Beaded.

The woman who wants to have new furs for old will be able to acquire the former by using her ermine, moleskin or seal scarf and muff as the foundation for elaborate embroideries done in bead work.

In fact, this is the latest fashion mandate from Paris. Everything is to be beaded, from hats to shoes, and even the choicest furs will not be exempt from the bead craze. Of course, it is not likely that beaded furs will become general, but they are interesting as indicating a new departure in modish pelts.

FIND OF THE SEASON

Barney Dreyfuss Uncovered Gem in Pitcher Mamaux

Pittsburgh Twirler Ranks Next to Alexander in Number of Games Won—Youngster Found on Sand Lots of Smoky City.

Al Mamaux, the new pitcher of the Pirates, alone is entitled to that oft-bestowed description, "the sensation of the season." Barney Dreyfuss uncovered a gem when he found this youngster on the Smoky City's sand lots. And the most interesting part of it—particularly to Barney—is that Mamaux didn't cost him a cent!

What is he worth now? Well—don't say there isn't money in the baseball sensation. It is doubtful if money could buy him.

They call him a second Mathewson, and he is about the only "second Mathewson" we have heard of in some time that was worthy of the name. The only reason he is not leading the National league in the twirling department is because of Alexander the Great. Mamaux ranks next to the Philly phenom, however, in the number of games won this season.

If you ask a ball player how good Al is as a pitcher you will receive an answer after this fashion:

"A great pitcher—the most conceited in the league!"

Mamaux is of a well-to-do family, it is said, and does not have to play ball for a living. Possibly this accounts for his supreme self-confidence.

Albert Leon Mamaux.

However, he is none the less a great pitcher. And he is only 20 years old and playing his first season in big business.

Mamaux is a right-hander and also bats right-handed. He is six feet tall and weighs 167 pounds. He has a fine musical education, being a tenor singer and a master of the violin. As for his pitching art, he has an assortment of fine curves, a fast ball with a wicked "hop," and a change of pace that bewilders many a batter.

FREAK BASEBALL PLAYS

The possibilities of baseball are evinced in various ways. Freak plays are recorded in amateur and professional games that would be considered ridiculous if propounded at a fanning bee. In a recent game in the American league a player scored a run without a base hit, pass or fielding error. His third strike was a wild pitch, on which he reached second. A passed ball put him on third and another wild pitch sent him home.

A new Federal league recruit tells a story of how four batters, whom he struck out in a row while pitching for his college team, scored, which is unique in baseball annals. His catcher, as he tells the tale, was a little fellow, who could not hold his fast ones, and, as he had nothing but speed, the result was disastrous. The first four batters to face the amateur Rusie reached first safely, when the catcher let the third strike go through. The first batter scored when the fourth landed on first, and a hit and error following scored the next three.

Cather and Gilbert.

The Toronto club has secured Outfielder Ted Cather and Larry Gilbert from the Boston National club. The Toronto team, by the way, is quite a Brave farm, as Pitchers Luque and Cocreham were both sent there on the optional agreement basis some time ago.

Mike Kahoe Is Fired.

Clark Griffith has fired Mike Kahoe, his veteran scout, and says that he is going to do all the scouting for the Washington club in the future. Kahoe is going to unearth the ivory for the Red Sox in the future.

SCHALK PLAYS "JOKE" ON "NEMO" LEIBOLD

RAY SCHALK

NEMO LEIBOLD

Ray Schalk is tickled because Nemo Leibold is with the White Sox. The two players were on the Milwaukee Club of the American Association some years ago. They roomed together and were the closest of pals. They went around together, knew the same crowd of girls in Milwaukee and wore each other's neckties.

As time went on, Schalk was purchased by the White Sox and Leibold went to the Cleveland Naps. This did not interfere with their friendship, however. Except during the progress of a ball game, they still were chums.

One day, with Jim Scott pitching, the White Sox got into a jam. With two out, the Naps had the bases full. Nemo Leibold was sent up to bat in the pinch by Manager Birmingham. Schalk decided to play a little joke on his former "roomie" and, incidentally, get Scott out of a hole if possible. Leibold sauntered to the plate, swung his bat and waited for Scott to pitch. Schalk gave the signal for a groove ball and then asked Nemo if he had received a letter from Mary recently. The Nap player turned half around. "No, Ray; she hasn't written in weeks. Wonder what's the matter?"

Scott had shot a ball through and the umpire called "Strike one!"

"That's funny," replied Schalk, 'I thought she wrote at least once a week."

"Guess she's too busy to write," said Leibold, glancing around again.

Another ball shot across.

"Strike two!" yelled the umpire.

The two coachers on the lines frantically tried to give Leibold the signal. They couldn't understand why he stood there as if in a trance.

"Well, I heard from Helen," exclaimed Schalk. "She's going to Michigan on a two weeks' trip.'

"Gee, that's great," answered Leibold, keeping his bat on his shoulder. "She's certainly a dandy girl."

"You bet she is," grinned Schalk as the third strike whizzed across.

"Batter out!" snapped the umpire, and Nemo walked to the bench.

Connie Mack says that he will not sell his stock in the Athletics. He has his mind set upon developing another winner, and the chances are good for his doing so.

BRAINS NECESSARY IN GAME

Oscar Stanage, Detroit Backstop, Says Catching Demands Great Amount of Mental Ability.

Few fans and not so many players realize the important part that brains play in the modern game of baseball. Oscar Stanage, the first-class Detroit catcher, once said: "Catching demands one-third physical ability and two-thirds mental work."

In making this statement he did not overestimate the mental part of it. A good arm and a good eye never made a wonderful ball player. He must have these ingredients in his make-up in order to succeed, but they must be commanded by his brain. The only reason in the world that Ty Cobb is the greatest ball player and the biggest drawing card in the game today is that he has more brains than the average player and uses them in his work. Cobb is always studying the opposing pitcher and catcher and figuring out some way to outwit them on the bases.

Famous Home Run Drives.

Those famous home run drives made into the stands at the Polo grounds soon may be no more, at least for American league games, for Jacob Ruppert of the Yankees has suggested that they should be counted only as two-base hits. The distance from the plate permits them legally being called homers, but 225 feet is far too short for the heavy swatters of these days.

SEGREGATE SICK HOGS

Cholera Is Not the Only Disease Troubling Swine.

Ailing Animals Should Be Taken From Herd and Isolated Until Nature of Distress Can Be Fully Determined Upon.

(By D. H. PRESTON HOSKINS, Minnesota Experiment Station.)

The importance of a correct diagnosis, where hog cholera is suspected, cannot be over-estimated. Hog cholera serum, administered to a herd thought to be infected with cholera, but in reality suffering from some other disease, usually means time and effort wasted, and, if the treated hogs keep on dying, distrust of the serum treatment. Except in very unusual cases, either a positive or negative diagnosis of cholera can be made, if there is opportunity for a post-mortem examination. In doubtful cases a post-mortem is always proper.

Just as soon as it is noticed that a hog is sick, it should be separated from the herd and kept isolated until the exact nature of the trouble can be determined.

Diseases which are most frequently mistaken for hog cholera are intestinal worms, various digestive disturbances, lung worms, inflammation of the bowels and necrobacillosis. The last named disease is caused by the same germ that is responsible for sore-mouth and bull-nose of pigs. Most of the confusion of the two diseases arises from the fact that in some cases pigs affected with necrobacillosis will show the speckled appearance of the kidneys which has been looked upon as so characteristic of hog cholera.

Hog cholera serum is of no value in combating any disease except hog cholera.

CARE OF HORSE IN SUMMER

Every Reason for Giving Faithful Animal Best Attention and Liberal Amount of Cooling Food.

During the warmest of the summer days there is plowing and much harvesting work for the horses to do. There is every reason for giving the horse the best of care and attention, and a liberal amount of cooling feed.

It is difficult for you to hustle on hot days and it is just as wearing on the horse. Often you stop the team and rest in the shade for a few minutes several times during the day. Why not give the horses the benefit of the cooling shade breezes?

You drink often and the dumb brutes that are doing the hardest of the work will appreciate an opportunity to drink several times during the day. Better not let the horses gulp water in large quantities unless you want a foundered animal.

How refreshing and restful is a good plunge in the old creek which flows through the backwoods pasture, after a hard day's work. It makes you feel like a new man. And faithful Dobbin will appreciate it if you sponge off the harness marks, especially over the shoulders where the heavy collar has been rubbing all day. Put a little salt into the cold well water so as to make it still cooler.

CARING FOR LATE POTATOES

Tubers Are Too Often Neglected After First Few Weeks of Growth —Use Light Cultivator.

On many farms the potatoes are well cared for during the first few weeks of their growth, but late in the season they are left to take care of themselves.

It is true that deep cultivation, after the plants are fairly well grown, will be harmful, but the occasional use of a light cultivator, with teeth not more than an inch and a quarter wide, may well be continued until the tubers are nearly ripe, or the vines have become so large as to prevent further work between the rows.

The destruction of injurious insects is another matter which usually receives fairly prompt and thorough attention during the first half of the growing season, but which, on many farms, does not receive sufficient attention later on. The fight against the enemies should be continued to the end of the growing season. This will allow the tubers to reach their full size and to become thoroughly ripe. It will also do much to prevent the appearance of large numbers of "bugs" next year.

Drive Out Granary Pests.

When the new grain goes into the granary, drive out the weevils and other pests. A few open dishes of bisulphide of carbon set around will do it. Then close the granary tightly and make yourself scarce while the stuff is evaporating, for the vapor goes downward and you may get a whiff of it, to your great harm. Keep lights and fire away.

7. Breed your cows to a pure-bred registered dairy bull from a family having large and profitable production of butterfat.
8. Raise well the heifer calves from cows which for one or more generations have made large and profitable productions of butterfat.

DESTROY BROWN-TAIL MOTH

Contact With Hairs of Insect Causes Poisonous Rash on Human Beings—Big Menace to Trees.

One of the most serious effects of the presence of the brown-tail moth in a community is that of the peculiar skin disease it may produce. Some of the hairs of the full-grown caterpillar are furnished with minute barbs. When the caterpillars molt these barbed hairs are shed with the skin and as the skins become dry and are blown about by the wind the hairs may be quite generally disseminated. When the hairs alight upon the human skin they cause an irritation, which upon rubbing may develop into inflammation.

Men who come in contract with these poisonous hairs during their work in the parasitic laboratory in Massachusetts, use the following remedy for the brown-tail rash: Carbolic acid one-half dram, zinc oxide one-half ounce, lime water eight ounces; shake thoroughly and work well into the affected parts. This has proven a most effective remedy.

Various Forms of Hairs From Brown-Tail Moth Caterpillar.

According to Doctor Riley, the brown-tail moth was introduced into this country from Europe about the year 1890. The pest has spread rapidly over New England and New York and there is every prospect that it will continue to spread until it reaches the middle and western states. Wherever it goes it will prove a serious pest to man as well as to his trees and plants.

PREVENT BAD TRICK OF COW

Arrange Girth Strap Through Rings So She Cannot Suck Herself—Use Good Strong Halter.

To prevent a cow from sucking herself, put on a good strong halter and a strong strap around her body. Fasten rings in the girth strap, one on each side about level with the side rings on the halter. From these rings to the side rings place two other straps just long enough that the cow can turn her head from side to side, but cannot get it back far enough to suck.

The girth strap should not be too tight. It is better to leave it quite loose and place some small weight on it underneath the cow so the strap will not slip out of place.

Use Aeroplanes to Hunt Seals.

Difficulty experienced this past season in locating seal herds in northern waters has caused the owners of sealing ships to give serious consideration to employing aeroplanes in next year's hunt. These craft of the air, they believe, can scout more cheaply and with less waste of time than the sealing ships, themselves. Small aeroplanes, designed especially for the purpose, are looked upon as entirely feasible. Through their use, seal herds will be located and reported to the vessel which can then make for the spot indicated.

BEST REMEDIES FOR SORES AND ULCERS

Mr. C. A. Butler, of Salem, Va., writes: "I can safely say that Hancock's Sulphur Compound is the best remedy I ever used for sores. One of my little boys, eight years old, had a solid sore all over his face, we tried different kinds of medicine, but none seemed to do any good. Our son, nineteen years old, had a sore on his leg for three months and nothing did him good. We used Hancock's Sulphur Compound on both and it did its work quickly and it was not over a week until both were well." Hancock's Sulphur Compound is sold by all dealers. MIGHTY POWER OF LOVE

Great Truth in Words Which Emerson Is Put on Record as Having Spoken.

It was Emerson who said, "An acceptance of the sentiment of love throughout Christendom for a season would bring the felon and the outcast to our side in tears, with the devotion of his faculties to our service. Love would put a new face on this weary old world, in which we dwell as pagans and enemies too long, and it would warm the heart to see how fast the vain diplomacy of statesmen, the impotence of armies and navies and lines of defense, would be superseded by this unarmed child." Alas that the sentiment has not been accepted, but instead the world and the individual have been laying their plans, and directing their action, by a calculation of chances which, of course, can be no bigger than the human mind that does the calculating. That love has not been tried is proved by the collapse of commercial civilization, but the things of commerce and of calculation perish, while the sentiment of love endures, because it is of God, and being of God, is sure in the end to triumph.—Universalist Leader.

Penn State and the Army.

Another value of Pennsylvania State College to the state and nation is accentuated in the announcement that in time of need, the alumni rolls of the college could muster 2600 physically and mentally trained officers for military duty.

In times like these, it is a satisfaction to know that the very thing which the ultramilitarists have been demanding is being done at the Centre county institution, and being done in the Penn State fashion of absolute practicality.

Too much cannot be said in emphasis of the practical training which marks the courses there not only in military instruction, but in other directions. This readiness of the graduates to turn into action the instruction received at the college is one of pressing reasons why the value of the college should be appreciated by the people of the state as well as by its legislatures.

Within a fortnight, another year's work will be started. Owing to the failure of the last legislature to appropriate sufficient funds, the work and natural growth of the institution will be hampered. This restriction will affect more seriously the people of all the state than the administrative officers, because in matters of this kind the public always is ultimately the loser.

What State is doing in military preparedness ought to have the effect of arousing the public to the efficiency of the institution and result in legislatures which size up to the needs of an institution which is peculiarly in the ownership of the public.—Harrisburg Patriot.

MIDDLE AGE.

Weekly Health Talk by Samuel G. Dixon, M. D., Commissioner of Health.

For all that has been said to the contrary this is the middle aged man's day. You can talk of the early recognition of competence, of youthful success and what does it all mean but that a man reaches middle age with more years of successful endeavor behind.

A generation or so ago a business man who devoted himself assiduously to golf or tennis would probably have lost his credit at the banks and have been looked at askance by his business associates. Now-a-days there are thousands of successful middle aged business men who regularly devote a certain portion of their time to rational exercise. This is fortunate as conditions have changed, our cities have increased in size and the environment of business is more restricted. Our grandfathers had much open air life thrust upon them; today it must be sought.

Cheeks bronzed from exercise in the open air stamps many a middle aged man as a devotee of rational sports. College athletics are probably responsible for a share of this improvement and public health teaching and a struggle for individual efficiency for the balance.

The man who has succeeded young is perhaps more jealous of his physical powers than one who has plodded on to a middle aged realization of his hopes.

There is a movement for temperance on the part of unnumbered thousands of middle aged men. Temperance in eating, in the use of alcohol and a rational indulgence in exercises which will keep up the physical poise. There are hundreds of country clubs today where there was one twenty-five years ago and it is the middle aged men and not the youngsters who most persistently frequent them. It is well that this is a growing movement for it will aid in offsetting the increasing mortality from degenerative diseases.

The pressure of life and the struggle for existence is growing keener and it behooves the man who has reached the noonday of life to give serious consideration to his physical well being if he wishes to hold his place in the harness.

For the first time in history the country's wheat production is a billion bushels. The estimated yields of the crops this year have been placed as follows:

The Judgeship and Partisan Politics.

does not now contemplate proceedings of this kind. Under it, and as another rock on which the act rests was the purpose, and it is made plain in the Act, to give every voter a chance without breaking party ties or doing violence to his party feelings to vote, not necessarily for a Democrat or a Republican, but for the man which his good sense and sound judgment tells him is the best fitted by experience, practice, learning and knowledge of the law to fill the position of Judge of the courts and most worthy to be entrusted with the preservation of the rights, liberties and property of the people of the district.
